

Araiza's Small Engine Service is a small engine supplier and repair shop who sought to rebrand their whole business online. They had an outdated website that did not meet their needs or work for their business. Their main goals were to attain a professionally redesigned website and logo, along with a user & mobile friendly website that would cater to all customers.

Carlos Araiza, the Owner of Araiza's Small Engine Service, hired Project 1000 for the job.

We hopped straight to the task at hand and designed a website that captured the characteristics and features that Carlos was looking for. These implemented features led to a productive website which resulted in business inquiries and leads flowing through the website. The end result was a professional brand with a clean and modern website that finally worked for their business. Project 1000 maintains the site as well as handles Araiza's marketing needs.

Client Testimonial

"The quality of work that I've received from Project 1000 has been excellent!

I love my new website design and its' characteristics. I would recommend Project 1000 because I enjoy the fact that, as a client, I can establish a good customer relationship one-on-one.

Thank you guys for your ethical work and advise!"
